

Supplier Ethics Expectations

TI's core values of integrity, innovation and commitment define how we evaluate our decisions and actions and how we conduct business. TI does not tolerate unethical behavior from our employees and suppliers. We believe in always doing business the right way and we expect every employee and supplier to support us in those efforts.

TI expects its suppliers to comply with:

1. All applicable laws and government regulations

2. TI's core values, as set forth in TI's Code of Conduct and Supplier Code of Conduct

3. TI's requirement on Gifts, Meals and Entertainment

- TI suppliers should not offer the following to TI employees, their family members, and any third party acting on behalf of TI: any gifts (with the exception of promotional or marketing items of nominal value), monies, rebates, loans, commissions, services, favors, travel costs, tickets to sporting events/concerts or remuneration of any kind.
- Any meals or entertainment must relate directly to conducting TI business and should be of nominal value. Meals should be on a reciprocal basis. Excessive or adult entertainment of any sort is prohibited
- Meals and entertainment should not be conducted during an active bid for a project or negotiation of an agreement
- Supplier shall not offer to pay for travel expenses, such as airfare or hotel, when a TI employee is visiting a supplier site or attending a conference or seminar.
- In some TI locations, all supplier meals and entertainment are prohibited. Check with your local procurement rep for guidance.

4. TI's requirements on Conflict of Interest

- Any supplier preferred pricing for personal purchases shall be made available to all TI employees, their family members, and any third party acting on behalf of TI
- Supplier shall not engage in a joint investment or other non-public investment opportunity with TI employees, their family members, and any third party acting on behalf of TI
- Supplier cannot make offers of internships or employment to a spouse, children, or close family members of a TI employee unless approved in advance by a TI Procurement Director.

5. TI's requirement on Former TI employees

- Supplier's employees that are former TI employees may not communicate with any current TI employees regarding purchases and business dealings between the parties for a period of one (1) year from the date of termination of employment. This applies to, but is not limited to, consultants, sales representatives, technical representatives, or any other positions that can influence the sale of products and/or services to TI.
- TI must be notified when Supplier assigns a former TI employee to support the TI account if such employee has left TI's employment within one (1) year of such assignment.

6. TI's requirements on Supplier Publicity

- TI Suppliers shall not use the Texas Instruments name or logo, a quote from a TI employee, or photos of a TI location in news releases (issued by Supplier), on websites, in social media, or on any type of publication that is distributed externally by the supplier company.

7. TI's requirements on Cyber Security

- TI suppliers are sometimes allowed access into TI's networks to perform project-related work, support TI systems etc. It is the responsibility of each supplier to protect TI confidential information and comply with TI's security policies.

Any exceptions to the above requirements must be approved in advance by a TI Procurement Director or Vice President.
